You're Invited!

The Pennsylvania State Data Center invites you to attend its Annual Data User Conference on September 15, 2010, at the Holiday Inn Harrisburg/Hershey.

With a changing population and new data tools, Pennsylvania communities need comprehensive data programs now more than ever.

As the commonwealth's most comprehensive single-day forum for research and developments in demographic data, the 2010 Data User Conference will address recent developments in the demographic field, as well as big changes on the horizon.

Speakers will discuss the newest developments in data collection, delivery and analysis, and the opportunities these new programs present. Speakers will discuss developments that are affecting us now, new data that's just around the corner, and everything in between.

Registration with a continental breakfast will begin at 8:00 a.m.
Welcome and introductions begin at 8:30 a.m.
