ADDRESSING CIVIC BOUNDARY DATA DISCREPANCIES

May 9, 2019

Jessica Trimble | Local Government Policy Specialist,
PA DCED Governor's Center for Local Government Services

CHALLENGES

- Lacking local data governance measures
- Inconsistent compliance in local data reporting
- Ineffective reporting processes between state and local government
- Inconsistent reporting leads to inconsistent data products
- Problems identifying (or developing) the correct dataset at the local level

RAMIFICATIONS OF INCONSISTENT DATA

- Digital applications produce conflicting information
- Funding allocations may be calculated incorrectly
- Emergency Response precision is sacrificed
- Municipal mergers and consolidations may be exposed to additional problems

Disclaimer: Please be advised that neither the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania nor the Department of Community and Economic Development (DCED) warrants the accuracy of the information obtained from this site. The geo-coding system used for address searches on this website is outside the control of DCED and is limited to the most current data available in that system. We recommend you contact the county, municipality and/or school district provided as a match for the address you entered to confirm the address fall within their geographic boundaries.

Note: You may also visit the US. Census Bureau's AmericanFactFinder to determine the municipality and school district for your address search. Then, contact the Tax Collector/Officer to determine your local rates and PSD codes. If you still receive no results, try an internet search on the City and State of the home and work address to determine the County for each. Then, contact the Tax Collector/Officer to determine your local tax rates and PSD codes.

CIVIC BOUNDARY WORK GROUP GOALS

1. Execute a state Census Boundary Annexation Survey (BAS)
2. Facilitate consistency across civic boundary data
3. Develop an effective and efficient procedure for monitoring boundary disputes, mergers, and annexations
